Managing product compliance and liability risks on a worldwide scale is a major challenge for companies. Our multi-jurisdictional product compliance and risk management specialists advise clients on product risk throughout the entire product life cycle, including development, manufacture, use, safety, recovery, and disposal of products.

This includes helping clients implement new technologies or deliver connected products and services, understand potential compliance obligations and liability risks, and mitigate against those risks.

Our Team

With a dedicated product compliance and risk management team in London, and across the globe, we are able to take a cradle to grave approach with clients and advise on all regulatory requirements.

We focus on prevention and risk transfer techniques through contractual terms and insurance and defending product liability claims when they arise.

We also regularly lead teams of product safety specialists worldwide advising on product recalls, and advise clients on crisis and reputation management, taking a holistic approach on all matters.
